Additional Expenses, Fees, Discounts

Iowa Basic Skills Testing

Families may opt in to Iowa Basic Skills testing in the spring. Additional fees to cover proctoring and exams will be assessed. This opportunity is offered as a benefit to TMS families and is purely optional.

School Uniforms

The Master's Study does impose a reasonable dress code upon its student body. Embroidered items may be ordered from Land's End, where our crest is on file and read for use. Acquisition of school uniforms is purely the responsibility of TMS families.

Books and Texts

The Master's Study provides a book and text list for use with our program. However, unless specifically noted, TMS does not supply such material unless it is a "loaned handout". We find this provides the most flexibility to families seeking to acquire books, whether in "hand-me-down" fashion from older siblings, borrowed from friends, or acquired online – new or used. Possible resources include Rainbow Resources, Amazon.com, Barnes & Noble, and Half-Price Books – just to name a few.

Students in Rhetoric level literature classes, however, may be asked to purchase a "book set" in order to make studying of the material in the classroom easier (i.e. all students reading the same version of a text.) In this case, TMS will pass on the book set at cost and will search for the most cost-effective method possible.

Consumables Packets

TMS may, from time to time, be able to provide "consumables packets" for student use. Cost of these packets will vary and be in keeping with the cost of reproduction only.

Bank Fees

The Master's Study reserves the right to assess bank fees related to checks returned for insufficient funds.
