

Dear Friends-

If you are reading this note, then you have, at some point, expressed an interest in The Master's Study. You may have a high school-aged student, or soon to be high school aged. Or, you may be in the throngs of junior high and are thinking ahead. These are years that make mom's hair either stand on end just a bit, or turn gray at an accelerated speed.

We understand these days.... Many of us are right there with you, struggling with that dreaded home school phrase: "high school at home." The Master's Study recognizes that high school is not all about credits or finishing curriculum, but rather challenging students to think and make an argument. In fact, high school at home should be so much more than reading a mass produced textbook and spending time in a classroom with a teacher and an overhead projector.

Please consider yourself invited to an evening of questions and answers as The Master's Study moves forward in expanding her high school program next year. Join me on Tuesday, March 29th at 7:00 pm for an informational coffee. Key information points about our 2-day program, including course offerings and an explanation of the "modified university model", will be shared. Other points include the presentation of the school calendar, scheduling options, and an opportunity to gauge specific interest for the other electives (science, math and language) that we plan to offer as well as transcript planning tools. In addition, we will address the plan of growth for the coming years.

Our evening is extremely casual; come as you are and bring a notebook and every and any question you may have. Yes, BOTH parents should come! Parents often have different questions and perspectives in this big decision making process. And yes, students may come as well.

Please RSVP at your very earliest convenience to cindy.brumbarger@TheMastersStudy.org or call 317-339-0126.

I can't wait to see you there!

Cindy Brumbarger
