

The Master's Study

Scope and Sequence by Subject

Literature and Composition

TMS ROLE:		Supplemental / Enrichment				Teacher / Tutor Guided			Teacher/Tutor Driven			TMS Teacher/Tutor Directed
	PreK	Lower Grammar				Upper Grammar			Dialectic			Rhetoric
		LGK	LG1	LG2	LG3	UG4	UG5	UG6	DI	DII	DIII	RI	RII	RIII
Class Description		Recitation & Copywork				Humane Letters			Emerging Composition	Beginning Composition	Intermediate Composition	Advanced Composition	Mastery Composition	Thesis
Early Writing		Copywork
Western Writing Standards	fine motor development related to early writing			Dictation
		Simple Sentences		Basic Paragraph
		It is essential that grammatical skills be emphasized in the home. These skills are also relevant to the application of Latin studies.
					Basic Grammatical Principles			Compositional Grammar
						Simple Essay
Progym						Fable / Narrative
									Chreia/Maxim
									Refutation
									Confirmation
									Common Topic
Literature									Introduction to Research Paper			Traditional Research Paper
												Characterization and Description
												Intro to Thesis	Thesis
		Most reading skills in the Lower Grammar School should be developed in the home.										American Literature	Modern Literature	The Bible as Literature	Literature of the Medieval World
		Early phonetical awareness											Classic Literature of the Ancients
	Early Reading Skills
	Developing Independent Reading
					Literature selections are driven by the history rotation assigned for the year. Continued reinforcement of reading skills to continue in the home.										